One reason why I have never learned to do the Tango is because I never could see much sport in walking backward with a girl all night. And this would be a whole lot better country if people would pay as much attention to holding their jobs as they do to knocking the trusts.

SOMETHING ABOUT MONTAGUE GLASS.

Author of "Potash and Pearlmutter" Studied His Characters While Practicing Law.

It is interesting to know that Montague Glass, the author of the famous "Potash and Pearlmutter" stories in the Saturday Evening Post, studied his characters at first hand, while a young lawyer in New York City. In fact, the author now admits that he was often more interested in his clients than in their troubles and that it was the literary possibilities rather than the legal probabilities that attracted him during his service at the bar.

Young Mr. Glass, yes, Montague Glass is his real name, had what is known as a "commercial" practice and among his patrons were many "Abes" and "Mawrusses," but Mr.

Montague Glass, Author of Potash and Pearlmutter.

Glass insisted that his "Potash and Pearlmutter," Lawyer Feldman and the others are all composite characters. Of course, their adventures are pure fiction, but their speech, thought and actions are not, for during his ten years in practice the future literary celebrity stored his memory with an infinite number of details and when he finally began to sit down his fiction characters on people, he found it easy to invest them with that spirit of fidelity that did so much to command immediate recognition on the part of the reading public.

Mr. Glass' world-renowned characters will soon be seen here in the flesh and blood, for "Potash and Pearlmutter," the famous comedy, comes to the Paris Grand on Thursday, September 10, direct from its second year on the Cohan Theatre, New York.

CAN YOU BEAT IT?

John Duvall, the popular conductor-motorman on the Interurban city car, is peeved, because he can't make people understand that he doesn't know everything. While his car was waiting at the station the other day, Duvall unbosomed himself to the News man as follows:

"People have an idea that a street car conductor is a cross between an encyclopedia, a Webster Unabridged dictionary and a city directory. A woman asked me the other day to let her off on High street in front of some place where they sold second-hand dresses, and she got sore because I had to tell her I did not know of such a place.

"On another occasion, an old colored woman got on the car, and I noticed she seemed nervous and ill at ease. I asked her what the trouble was and she said she wanted to get off 'close to where Miss Fannie lived, somewhere up on Main street.' That's all the information I could get out of her, and I let her off at the turn on Fourteenth street, where she limped away looking for 'Miss Fanny.' Hope she found her.

"I have to listen to all sorts of queer queries, from wanting the time, to news from from the European war, but of course, am expected to be patient and forbearing through all."

"MORE RAIN, MORE REST."

Plenty of rain has fallen during the past week, enough to satisfy farmers in every part of the county. The heaviest showers of the week occurred Friday night, when a soaking rain fell, sufficient, to raise the streams and be of great benefit to crops. There is nothing to complain of now, live stock is thriving on the freshened pasturage, crops are rapidly maturing, and everybody is satisfied with the prospects.

High prices for food products of all kinds continue to prevail and will do so as long as the European war lasts. Business of all kinds has been rather dull during July and August, but not more so than usual during the mid-summer months. With the drought broken, however, and cooler weather prevailing, merchants are greatly encouraged, and the prospect for a good fall trade was never better.

CLEAN UP.

Clean up your yards, cut your weeds, see that the street in front of your house is clean. Let it be a matter of personal pride with you that your premises present as good or better appearance than your neighbors. Much depends upon first impressions. Let visitors to our city when they leave take with them the memory of an orderly, well-kept town, whose citizens take pride in keeping it attractive, and the effect of this silent advertising will be far-reaching in its benefits to Paris.

Any married woman can tell you that the Mule hasn't any mortgage on stubbornness.

Father likes to lie in bed and read. But if he catches the children doing it he gives them Hall Columbia about. Ruining their eyes.

HELP US TO LIVE.

To further the interests of the town in which you live, it is necessary to vie with each other in all public enterprises and lay aside any envious feeling that may creep into your nature. Don't "knock" your neighbor because by hard work and economy he has accumulated a few more dollars than you possess, but rather admire and encourage the example, to follow which might greatly better your own condition. There is a little something that every one can do that will add not only to the personal welfare of the individual, but prove a help to the community at large. With an eye ever to "self-preservation," one of the first laws of nature, then let us reach out to our neighbor a helping hand that he may encounter in a business or social way.—Exchange.

SIMPLEST WAY TO KILL A FLY.

The London Lancet, the leading medical journal of the world, says that the best and simplest fly killer is a weak solution of formaldehyde in water (two tablepoons to the pint of water.) Place in plates or saucers throughout the house. Ten cents worth of this liquid will last an ordinary family all summer. It has no offensive odor, is fatal to disease organisms and is practically nonpoisonous except to insects.

Mrs. Wilson Robison, 744 Nessel St., Toledo, Ohio, writes: "I feel like a new person. I have no more heavy feelings, no more pain, don't belch up gas, can eat most anything without it hurting me. I want to be working all the time. I have gained twenty-four pounds."

"People that see me now Mrs. Wilson Robison, and saw me two months ago seem astonished. I tell them Peruna did it. I will say it is the only remedy for spring and all other ailments." No argument is needed for Peruna. Just get a bottle and try it. If you have catarrh of the stomach you have a serious trouble. If you want to find a remedy it would be very easy to make the experiment. Before you have taken Peruna a week you will likely find yourself better, then you will need no testimonials on the part of other people, or arguments to convince you. Until you try Peruna, however, all the testimonials in the world and arguments, however logical, will not move you. Just one trial of Peruna will convince you. Persons who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.
